Your Barnardo's advocate is a person who:

...is independent. This means they work directly for you, not your carers or social worker.

...will listen carefully to you and help you make sure that people making decisions about your life are listening to what you have to say.

Your advocate can support you to:

Express your wishes and feelings in meetings.

Contribute to the plans and decisions being made about you.

Make a complaint.

Understand your rights and entitlements.

What do our children and young people say?

“My advocate is someone who backs me up; who gives me authority.”

“My advocate helped keep me calm in meetings when things had become stressful.”

“It was very good, my advocate was polite and advised me to what my rights were.”

We are here for you to:

Help you be safe and feel safe.

Listen to you carefully.

Treat you with respect.

Your advocate will not tell anyone anything you say without your permission unless they are worried about you or someone else's safety.
