1.3	What is the aim and objective of the Policy, Strategy, Function, Project or Activity?
	The aim of transformation programme is to provide individually and personalised supported housing solutions which encouraged rights, independence and inclusion to people with learning disabilities. It is a review of existing services that started to be implemented in 2007. The process involves moving away from registered residential care, respite and day services as, towards supported housing. The work streams of the programme include: • Developing a range of local supported housing options through new providers and schemes. • Converting residential homes to supported housing providing tenants with increased rights, choices and benefits. • Working with new carers to expand the Croydon Supported Lodging Scheme. • Working with Supporting People team to maximise access to housing related support for people with learning disabilities funded through the Supporting People Programme. • Working with the housing procurement team to develop access to properties for supported living.
